Youthful Genius of Hollywood Succumbs

The above photograph of Irving Thalberg, noted movie producer who died of lobar pneumonia yesterday, and his wife, Norma Shearer, was made upon the couple's return from Germany, where they had spent a year for Thalberg's health. He was 37 years old. Among Thalberg's most successful pictures were "Molting on the Bounty" and "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." Associated Press photo.

MOTIVE IN SLAYING IRVING THALBERG, DARED BY BROWNS

'I Did As Any Other Man Would Have Done,' Each Tells Jury in Dallas.

By LAMAR Q. BAILL.
Staff Correspondent.

DALLAS, Ga., Sept. 14.—Two brothers, both in their early forties and both of them inarticulate, weather-beaten farmers, sat on the witness stand in Tallapoosa circuit superior court here today and thumbed through the pages of a school child's scratch pad as they read haltingly to a jury their own laboriously-penned stories of why they killed the man who had killed their sister.

"I did as any other man would have done," each said in his turn, in identical words.

Story of Sister's Slaying.
Each told in his own words, however, his story of the unhappy life their sister had led as the wife of the man they had killed, claiming she had tried to leave the man after he had beaten her unmercifully; that this man had broken two of the sister's ribs with an automobile jack because he believed she had reported him as a bootlegger; that he had made her drive liquor vans for him; that he had driven her back to her home near Dallas from Atlanta; that he had shot

RICHMAN CRASHES IN NEWFOUNDLAND AS GAS GIVES OUT

Singer and Merrill Are Slightly Injured; Plane
Forced Down in Fog,
Wrecking Its Propeller.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Sept. 14.—(UP)—Harry Richman and Dick Merrill, jaunty fliers who landed in a Wales cow pasture on their eastward trans-Atlantic flight, were slightly injured today when the crashed in a bog after their $95,000 Vultee monoplane ran out of gas on their return trip from England to New York.

The fliers, who took off from Southampton, England, at 9:05 p. m. (Atlantic time) last night, roared out of the fog-encrusted bank over Musgrave Grove, 140 miles northwest of here just as their 1,000-horsepower motor began sputtering, and at 1:30 p. m. (Atlantic time) the plane tore into the bog, ripping off the propeller and smashing a wing tip.

They first startled fisherfolk when they came out of the rain and fog over Carmanville, 10 miles north of here.

Sought Landing Place.
For 15 minutes the "Lady Peace" circled the rugged coast attempting to sight a landing spot, then heading south it was next seen over Musgrave Harbor. This time the fliers saw what appeared to be a likely landing place and coming in almost touching the tree tops pointed their ship for a rough patch of ground.

It turned out to be bog land and as the plane touched wheels to the ground, it sank through the soft surface and the ship toppled over on its side. Both men were thrown violently against the instrument panel. A resident insisted one of the fliers was hurt badly, but another report said they escaped with scratches and bruises.

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, general manager of Eastern Air Lines, said in New York that he received a telegram from Merrill which read: "Made forced landing account of gas. Damaged propeller. No luck. There was no mention of injuries."

The fliers took off from Southampton, England, using a three-mile stretch of beach, at 9:05, Atlantic time, last night and were unheard from until 11:45 a. m. today when Richman's baritone voice came over the two-day flight. The fliers were in the air for 11 hours, 40 minutes, according to a telegram from Richman.

HITLER DECLARES REICH UNBEATABLE IN SOVIET ATTACK

Dictator Defies Democracies, Warns 'We Won't
Tolerate Falsehoods
About Us Elsewhere.'

By WADE WERNER.
(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press.)
NURNBERG, Germany, Sept. 14.—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler tonight defied democracies, and warned Bolsheviks away from Nazi Germany. To the Bolsheviks he cried: "A new German army is standing at Germany's door."

To democracies: "It's all the same to us whether democracies hate Nazi Germany or not. One can love or one can hate Germany—but one could never destroy it."

To the Bolsheviks he added, "Will You Throw Them Out."

"If the Bolshevik military forces ever march against us we'll throw them out as we did bolshevism itself. If our neighbors respect Germany's freedom, honor and equality, they'll find in Germany their best friend. But if the Bolsheviks try to open the gates to other countries they'll find a new German army standing at Germany's door."

"Other countries," he said in a voice so hoarse that at times it was squeaky, "don't have to permit national socialism, just as we don't permit democracy here."

Winding up the annual Nazi convention, Hitler said that 99 per cent of German people stood behind anti-Communist government as opposed to a democratic one.

"National socialism doesn't care what beliefs are held abroad, but we won't tolerate lying reports about our teachings and intentions."

Hitler declared the two-year military service he recently decreed "had made Germany again free in four short years of Nazi leadership."

During his speech he mentioned favored nations, which he said had "fought for 11 years against communism and we are happy over other countries which are fighting by other means against the same enemy."

Called by Nation.
The supreme leader of Germany's millions, speaking after hundreds of planes, canons, tanks and road and rumbled in startlingly realistic sham battles, said:

"You, my soldiers, have been called by the nation to serve a fanatical attempt by exaggerated chauvinism."

ROOSEVELT CALLS INSURANCE HEADS IN PLOT ON KING

Subject Secret, but President Expected To Seek Reply to Knox Charge.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Announcement that President Roosevelt has called a conference of insurance company executives at the White House tomorrow, together with official silence on the purpose of the meeting, today gave rise to widespread speculation.

Stephen T. Early, presidential secretary, taking cognizance of reports the conference was prompted by a speech of Colonel Frank Knox, said the President drafted his first memorandum on the subject prior to the speech of the Republican vice presidential nominee.

Knox, in a speech September 5, said the administration had been "giving lip service to security and welfare" but that today "no life insurance policy is secure."

Although it was understood the invitations to the meeting did not actually go out until after the Knox speech, Early said the President's memorandum was dictated August 24.

Both from New Deal quarters and from a usually well informed Republican in New York came statements that the insurance executives would be asked for comparisons of the financial status of insurance companies today with 1933 when the Roosevelt administration began.

In administration circles here it was said statements had gone out to certain insurance companies to policyholders that continued New Deal spending would place the value of insurance policies in jeopardy.

The White House conference attracted attention in political quarters in view of attention given to the subject.

7th Headless Body Found at Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Sept. 14.—(UP)—A seventh headless body was found tonight by two East Cleveland detectives and their dog as 25 Cleveland detectives bent their energies to the capture of the perverted killer who last week dismembered the body of an unidentified young man and dumped it into wild Kingsbury run.

Buried in a prime box covered by the dead grass of this business was that of a woman. Loose earth indicated the burial was recent, although the condition of the corpse suggested the killing might have been done some time ago.

Absence of the head and the choice of a vacant lot near railroad tracks for burial offered the only evidence of the technique of Cleveland's "human butcher."

Cobb Says: Movies To Miss Thalberg

By IRVIN S. COBB.
(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 14.—Big an industry as the moving picture industry is, the death of one slender, shy, frail man has stunned it. The old guard of this business has lost its little corporal and the second generation of producing talent is left with a yawning gap where he stood.

Irving Thalberg was an authentic genius of the films—a master showman—a deft interpreter of that tricky art which finds its medium through story and camera and screen.

It will be long before they breed another Thalberg out here. For men of his brain, his energy, his pathfinding instincts don't come in sets. Don't name come singly.

The name Napoleon has been overworked to describe ability with the limits of his own craft, was not only a Napoleon but a Daniel Boone and a Balzac all rolled in one.

ATLANTA LAWYER TO HEAD MEETING

Governor-Designate Says
He Will Actively Support Proposed Change
Favoring Pension Law.

Congressman E. E. Cox, of Camilla, will be the temporary chairman and keynoter of the state Democratic convention at Macon October 7 and Charles S. Reid, Atlanta lawyer and classmate of Governor-Designate E. D. Rivers, will be the permanent chairman of the convention and the new chairman of the state Democratic executive committee.

This was determined here yesterday as Governor-Designate Rivers made it known he will take no part in the campaign revolving around the proposed amendments to the state constitution except to support the amendment permitting the general assembly to provide old age pensions.

Congressman Cox, who represents the second Georgia district, is vice chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Democratic national committee and is considered one of the best orators in the United States house of representatives.

Young Harris Graduate.
Attorney Reid is a graduate of Young Harris College, of which Rivers also is an alumnus. He has been a leading supporter of the new governor in his three state-wide races.

The new chairman of the executive committee, who will succeed Hugh Howell, of Atlanta, is a native of Union county.

After his graduation from Young Harris he went to Gainesville and served in various executive capacities in the Citizens Bank there before coming to Atlanta to become a member of the law firm of Little, Powell,

Fire Destroys Pier At Charleston Docks

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Fire which leapt into view just as the steamship Henry R. Mallory was slipping her moorings at Pier No. 2, completely wiped out Pier No. 3 of the Clyde-Mallory Lines this afternoon, destroying all its contents and damaging about half of three-dozen box cars which were being loaded at the docks.

Four tugboats and all Charleston's fire-fighting equipment pumped water steadily on the blaze for more than two hours.

William A. O'Brien, general manager here for the Clyde-Mallory Lines, estimated the damage to be in the neighborhood of $500,000.

He said he heard an American district Telegraph Company fire alarm in his office about 3:30 o'clock and rushed to the dock, where the flames already had gained great headway. He said he had been unable to learn how the fire originated, but that when the fire engines arrived the blaze had penetrated half way up the dock.

IRVING THALBERG, 37, PASSES IN CALIFORNIA

Dr. F. Groedel, New York lung specialist, came here by airplane.

Dr. Newmark said Thalberg lapsed into a coma early today. He rallied slightly, but went into an almost immediate decline that ended in his death.

This morning his two children, Irving Jr., 6, and Katharine, 1, were taken to the bedside, but Thalberg did not recognize them.

Thalberg's was a spectacular career in Hollywood.

He came into the industry as private secretary to Carl Laemmle Sr., former head of Universal Studios. After two years at that post, he went directly to the position of general manager and director of Universal. He was then 21 years old.

Within a few years, he signed a contract as a producer at the studio which was the forerunner of M-G-M.

It was there he met Miss Shearer. After their marriage in 1928, she often told the story of his courtship. She said he was excessively bashful, and that for years, they were "Miss Shearer" and "Mr. Thalberg" to each other. Despite daily meetings in the course of their work in the studio, he recalled, it was nearly six months before he asked her for a "date."

Among the screen players Thalberg helped to stardom were John Gilbert, Greta Garbo, Lon Chaney, Ramon Navarro, Robert Montgomery and Clark Gable.

He produced some of Hollywood's most lavish films during the era of the silent screen, and took the advent of sound in stride. Associates said his quick ability to size up both player talent and story material made him almost unique in production ranks.

Friends today said Thalberg's health had been delicate since childhood. Four years ago he was stricken with pneumonia which he said left his heart in a seriously weakened condition.

When he recuperated sufficiently to travel, Miss Shearer took him to Germany for convalescence. They were gone nearly a year.

His fatal illness developed from a cold he contracted while vacationing at Del Monte on Labor Day.

Reid and Goldstein. He still retains some of his Gainesville business and legal connections.

Other arrangements for the Macon convention are in progress.

Hands Off Policy.

Rivers revealed yesterday that he plans to adopt a "hands off" policy in connection with the proposed constitutional amendments on which the people are to pass on in the general election November 3.

Rivers, here for a brief visit, said he also will not take up the matter of setting up his administration until after the general election, asserting he is giving considerable thought to his program and that he is planning to leave the state to make a number of speeches in behalf of President Roosevelt.

Only one constitutional amendment, the one which provides that the general assembly may give the people of Georgia old-age pensions, was an issue in the campaign he successfully concluded last Wednesday.

Speaker Rivers said, "I intend to support that amendment with all of the force at my command. The other amendments were not issues in the campaign, and I will let the people decide them for themselves."

"I supported the submission of these amendments, I think all such highly controversial matters should be laid before the people. I feel that as speaker of the house I feel it my duty in helping to submit these matters, and I am certain to have faith in the people and know they will vote wisely on each and every one of them. I shall accept the decision of the voters."

The amendments to be voted on by the people in November include one creating the office of lieutenant governor, another providing a four-year term for the governor and others fixing four-year terms for other state officers.

Speaker Rivers reiterated a statement he made several times during the campaign to the effect he has made no commitments about jobs.

"I do not have time at present to even think about jobs," he declared. "We are busy arranging for the Macon convention, and as soon as that is over I'll be ready to make some speeches for President Roosevelt. After his re-election we will have plenty of time to talk about jobs."

The governor-designate will leave today for north Georgia, where he plans to try to get some rest. He will return Friday night for the Democratic jubilee dinner.

FULTON TAX LEVY SET AT SAME RATE AS 1935

levy seven and one-half mills per dollar for general operation, and one and one-half mills for paying bonded indebtedness.

General Yield $3,138,000.

The levy of $1 $100 for general county expenses is expected to yield $3,138,000 for 1936. The 10-cent educational tax will bring in approximately $200,000.

The levy made by the school board is 60 cents per $100 for general school operating expenses, and 15 cents per $100 for the retirement of the bonded indebtedness. This levy is made outside the city and the 60-cent tax will bring in about $250,000 for the schools. This and the $280,000 from the 10-cent tax, together with approximately $240,000 paid the schools by the county from other sources and $125,000 from the state, comprises the schools' revenue. It totals more than $900,000 per year.

Expenditures Listed.

The levy made by the county is to pay for police department, sanitary departments, courts, jail, the building and maintaining of roads and bridges and other set costs of county government. The county realizes approximately $810,000 a year from sources other than taxation.

Dr. Charles R. Adams, chairman of the board, said the taxes this year will amount to about $100,000 more than last year, according to estimates made by tax collectors. The commissioners have set up $25,000 in the budget with which to reduce the deficit which now amounts to nearly $250,000.

Commissioner Edwin F. Johnson asked the commissioners to agree not to make other appropriations this year and to apply all surplus monies to the deficits in an effort to cut it further.

The commission met in a recessed session and recessed again.

HELD IN MURDER.

"Rather Be Dead Than See My Wife Buried"

After Edward D. (Mike) Taylor, 47, failed to arrive at the funeral of his wife, investigation yesterday afternoon revealed his body lying on the front seat of his car in the garage of his home at 137 Georgia avenue, S. W. Mrs. Taylor died last Friday, following a long illness. Police learned Taylor told a friend he "would rather be dead than see my wife buried." The photograph shows the devoted couple.

INSURANCE LEADERS CALLED BY ROOSEVELT

ject of the insurance companies during the campaign.

John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, remarked at Chicago that the conference was "undoubtedly fixed to offset the bid news which he (the President) will have tomorrow morning from Maine."

Still another Republican, A. A. Ballantine, undersecretary of the American Legion, said he had been told in a statement through the Republican headquarters at Chicago that Democratic leaders were "frantically" trying to get votes against President Roosevelt by alarmed life insurance policyholders, owners of savings bank deposits and others who will see their dollars gradually shrink unless there is a sharp check on Roosevelt spending.

"Taint So."

"New Dealers," he added, "are trotting out various insurance company officials to say 'taint so'."

The Ballantine statements were given out before the calling of the conference were disclosed here. But the White House confirmation, William Hard, speaking under Republican auspices on the radio, said:

"The President has summoned a group of life insurance company presidents to Washington to confer with him tomorrow, Tuesday, on the subject of life insurance policies; and it is merely about the surface safety of those policies and not about the danger of inflation and the possible destruction of their purchasing power."

"The face value of the insurance policies will undoubtedly be paid to the beneficiaries. There is no danger on that point."

Suggests Inflation.

Hard added that "the real question for the President to ask" was whether "there is going to be an inflation of prices," which would discount the value of the dollars received by insurance policy beneficiaries.

Colonel Knox also revised his speech in Helena, Mont., tonight, to discuss the Roosevelt conference.

In his September 5 speech, he said: "The present administration has been for four years giving lip service to security and welfare and today no life insurance policy is secure; no savings account is safe. The value of a worker's pay in buying the necessities of life is dependent upon the whim of amateur tinkers with our money, banking and credit."

LACK OF FUNDS HINTED

fund to Commissioner Linder if he so desires and there is anything available in that fund.

In announcing that the markets at Valdosta, Thomasville and Douglas had been closed, Linder explained that at these markets no fees had been charged and that the department had not been given an appropriation to support them. He said it was the old season for produce and that neither farmers nor truckers were using the markets to any great extent.

Fees have been charged at the Atlanta and Macon markets, but reports say they have not produced enough revenue to make the markets paying propositions.

"Continuance of the Atlanta and Macon markets is not definite," Linder said. He explained the department still owes money for the construction of these markets, adding that some settlement must be made.

The market at Cartersville has been built several months, but has never been operated.

In his unsuccessful campaign for reelection, Commissioner Linder stressed what he termed the benefits of the marketing system he had set up. Mr. Roberts, in opposing him, announced he planned to reorganize the markets and put them on a more systematic basis.

The Market Bulletin, the state chemist's office, various inspections and other operations are carried on by the department the year round. These functions are being jeopardized by the commissioner's lack of operating funds, it was pointed out.

GEORGIA CITIES MOVE TO CONTINUE MARKETS

By The Associated Press.

When reports reached Thomasville and Valdosta yesterday that the markets in these cities would be closed for the remainder of the year, citizens immediately announced plans by which they hope to finance the markets in these cities until the legislature meets in January.

"Thousands of acres of truck already planted here is now dependent on this market for disposal," said W. E. Beverly, chairman of the Thomasville commission, "and we expect all possible to help our farmers with our produce."

Under arrangements made by the who made an examination, said marks of burns appeared on Taylor's mouth.

It was reported to police that Taylor, who had been extremely devoted to his wife, earlier in the day had said to a friend who was to have been a palbearer at Mrs. Taylor's funeral, "I would rather be dead than see my wife buried."

Taylor's Note.

The note was addressed "Dear Mrs. Wilson," and read:

"I can't go on without Jessie, so you call Mr. Smith and Mrs. Cantrell to help you make all the arrangements for the funeral."

"Take my insurance and pay the expenses and keep Jessie's..."

The note was signed "Edward," and contained the word "over," which revealed further writing on the other side of the paper. This read:

"Give Ralph the car and get him to attend to having father's grave moved so I can be buried by Jessie. Have a nice stone put up for us."

The "Ralph" referred to Ralph W. Sharpe, employee at the Confederate Soldiers' Home, and a close friend of the couple. He later in the day had a palbearer at Mrs. Taylor's funeral. Mrs. Taylor was to have been buried in Magnolia cemetery, in the family plot.

Detectives said Taylor had probably been dead for several hours. He was last seen at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

Coroner Paul Donehoo announced an inquest would be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the Poole mortuary. Relatives said plans for a double funeral are being made.

Married 17 Years.

The Taylors were married for 17 years, but had no children. Taylor worked as a grocery store at the general store at 279 Luckie street for several years.

Lately, they lived with Mrs. Taylor's mother, Mrs. Sarah J. Wilson, who operated a grocery store at the Georgia avenue address. Taylor aided in the store and attended his sick wife.

Relatives said the death of Mrs. Taylor was a great shock to him and that he had been "terribly broken up" since.

fied, and then abruptly wrote something on a piece of paper which he handed to the judge, who read it without comment.

The plot, McMahon alleged, had been the work of a "certain baron," evidently in the diplomatic service of some foreign power.

Asked what was the alleged plotters' motive for the assassination, McMahon said:

"One of the reasons was that certain parts of the empire would be handed over to other countries."

"Any colonies?"

A "Yes."

Cross-examined, the prisoner continued:

"I don't care what you do with me. I am here merely to tell the truth. I want to go to prison. I want you to give me the heaviest sentence you possibly can. It is only by remaining in prison that I can save my life from the people whom I have given away."

He was flown from Zurich to the airport here, stepped into a waiting automobile and was driven off to London.

The 42-year-old monarch was expected to move in soon to his new official residence at Buckingham palace.

Six months ago we promised to outstrip all contenders in Atlanta's fashion field. We have kept the faith. We have set the pace. We have consistently and persistently led the town. Every Fashion-First predicted by us has become an authentic and assured Autumn success. If you think we've been good up to now, just watch our smoke from now on. The minute a new fashion is born, we'll tell you about it. And we'll tell you FIRST!

FIRST with Costume Suits, on August 9th. We predicted that they would be the most significant fashion of the season. They are! The suit sketched at right, is black wool with tunic coat and glamorous Persian trim. $85.

FIRST with Black, way back on July 20th. How right we were is proved by the fact that almost seventy-five per cent of the women in Atlanta are now wearing BLACK.

FIRST with Grey, on August 4th. We told you that grey would be a leading color in wool. It is! All gradations of grey are popular—London Mist Grey, Pavement Grey, Flagstone Grey.

FIRST with Mary of Scotland trend, on August 8th. Evidenced in velveteens, Highland plaids, Tudor blues. The Mary of Scotland dress sketched is velvet with square yoke of Venice lace. $25.

FIRST with Fur Bands, on August 11th. Used with a generous hand to accent wool costume suits. We also scooped with Fur Tails as an important trim for silks and wools.

FIRST with Honeymoon Suits, on August 11th. We made it what it is today and we're more than satisfied. Our newest version of this four-way-four-piece suit is shown here—in black wool with green blouse and extra skirt. 19.95.

FIRST with Black-and-Turquoise, on September 2d. Also first with Black-and-Royal, a new amalgamation.

FIRST with Silk Jersey, on September 10th. Alix brought it back to Paris. We brought it back to Atlanta. From Paris, to Davison's, to you—that's how it goes!

FIRST with the Lock and Key Dress, on August 21st.

FIRST with Dull-and-Shining, on August 3d. The popularity of this fashion has exceeded our wildest predictions, and it is being snapped up by everyone from Freshie the Freshman to her Mama.

FIRST with Swingtime Silhouette, on August 16th—yes, that long ago! Shown here in fabulously full-skirted dress banded in shining cire—the better to swing it, my dear. 29.95.

FIRST with Grape Colors, on August 30th. The applause created by the Grape Theme at the Paris Openings had scarcely died down before Davison's rushed the news to you.

FIRST with the Charm Dress, on August 14th. Dangles are the newest new-fangled fashion!

FIRST with Coronation Colors, on August 2d. On that date we scooped with Tudor Blue. We've followed in quick succession with Coronation Red, Scot Green, London Mist Grey—colors inspired by England's Coronation year.

FIRST with the College Quickie, on August 19th. We named it and college gals have claimed it as their pet dress. Zips all the way up the front and is a grand time-saver.

Students, Parents Picket for Return Of Principal Ousted Over 'Caresses'

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Amid a chorus of jeers, picketing, banner waving and orators the Union Ridge school reopened today—but the demonstration only added fuel to the fire of controversy over charges of classroom bugging.

Charles O'Hearn, who was dismissed as principal by the Cook county superintendent of schools after three teachers accused him of caressing them during the last term, returned to the school in the capacity of "business manager."

The three teachers, who were dismissed by school board of suburban Norwood Park during the row, returned to have him.

One teacher, wearing a yellow blouse bearing a newspaper picture of the lean, 38-year-old former principal, urged the crowd:

"Stand by O'Hearn," their banners set forth.

The three erstwhile instructors—Misses Larinda Cleary and Charlene Lindsay and Mrs. Mary Hammond—were greeted with hoots as they went to the school to make formal application for the return of their jobs.

Herman Reussow, president of the community's school board, met them at the door. The former teachers explained the three young men who accompanied them were witnesses.

"Well," said Reussow as O'Hearn looked on in silence, "let them be witnesses to my statement that your services are no longer required."

"We're going to take this to court," Miss Lindsay announced, ending the informal conference.

O'Hearn, appointed business manager without salary by the school board to circumvent the superintendent's dismissal order, said he would urge the strikers to go to class tomorrow.

The approximately 200 students who had remained at their desks suffered only one more interruption—a dog fight. Then they returned to the business of education.

A. P. ASKS HIGH COURT TO VOID LABOR BODY

Protests Ruling in Discharge; Claim It Holds Threat of News Bias.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Freedom for the Associated Press to continue to present unbiased news "will be seriously hampered if not destroyed," should the United States supreme court uphold the validity of the national labor relations act, said a petition filed with the court today by counsel for the Associated Press.

The petition appealed from an order of the National Labor Relations Board, which in a decision handed down last week, directed the Associated Press to reinstate Morris Watson, a discharged employee in its New York office. The Associated Press said Watson was discharged for cause.

Watson claimed it was an act of discrimination in violation of the act. The Associated Press said it was not a union member.

Must Be No Bias.
"The Associated Press claims the right to discharge any employee, whenever it feels that his viewpoint has become so colored that he is unable to write the unbiased type of news story it attempts to provide its members," the petition stated.

The destroyer Kane also carried 80 Spanish refugees who were taken to Bordeaux.

The insurgent forces of General Emilio Mola turned their attention toward their main objective—Madrid.

Confident his army is secure against attack from the rear with San Sebastian and Irun occupied and non-Fascist forces scattered in defeat, General Mola was reported ready to transfer a considerable part of his strength to the mountains barring the way to the capital.

Fresh troops also were reported going to the Madrid front from Morocco. The insurgent high command was reported to have received word that the Spanish Socialist strength at Bilbao further west along the Bay of Biscay coast from Irun and San Sebastian.

Military experts said the reorganization of the foreign diplomatic corps, the surge toward Madrid might require "three weeks to three months" but quiet on the northern front would hasten the movement.

Witness Testifies In Terrorist Trial

DETROIT, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A "White Russian" who admitted abducting a Black Legion member, said today that the state charged with the murder of Charles A. Poole, a member of the hooded band "sentenced" Charles A. Poole to death, testified that he saw four men leave the hall with orders to abduct Poole.

The witness, one of the 52 the state has called in the trial of 12 men charged with shooting Poole to death, was Victor N. Schultz, an admitted member of the Black Legion. He said he delivered a talk against Communism at the meeting.

Schultz said "Colonel" Harvey Davis made an inflammatory speech in which he accused Poole, a non-member, of wife beating, and that Davis sent Dayton Dean, Edgar Baldwin, Paul E. Smith, and Urban Lipps out with orders to bring Poole back. He said he understood Poole was only to be given a flogging.

Davis has pleaded guilty to kidnapping and murdering Poole, and the other three are the defendants in the circuit court trial. Poole's body, with five bullets in the chest, was found in a ditch along an unpopulated suburban road the morning of May 13. The accusation that he mistreated his wife has been found since to be false.

Michael Layton, a former city employee, also testified that he had heard Davis denounce Poole at the meeting the night of the shooting.

'FRIENDS OF ATLANTA' FORMED TO BACK KEY
Pledging support to the candidacy of Mayor Key, a committee designated as "Friends of Atlanta" was formed last night at a meeting in an Atlanta hotel.

The group, which was organized by the Virginia P. Warren, chosen permanent chairman.

Plans were made for an intensive drive in behalf of Mayor Key's candidacy. Speakers included Bill Kemp, manager of the Key campaign headquarters, who denied charges by William R. Hartsfield, Key's opponent in the run-off primary, that paid outside workers were on the campaign staff.

ROOSEVELT PROMISED SUPPORT BY FLORIDANS
WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Two Democrat nominees from Florida told President Roosevelt today he "hasn't anything to worry about down there."

Claud Pepper and Fred P. Cone, candidates for the senate and governor, respectively, called for a brief pause in the campaign to support the president before he began the day's work at the White House.

"We told him we were going to take the stump for him in every county in the state," said Cone. "He hasn't anything to worry about down there."

Fascists Mine Harbor of Bilbao In Effort to Bottle Up Defeated Reds

Foreigners Evacuated With Defenders Planning to Retaliate at San Sebastian; With Rear Protected, Mola Mobilizes for Assault on Madrid.

SAINT JEAN DE LUZ, France, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Government defenders of Bilbao tonight advised foreigners to leave the city and warned commanders of the Spanish navy that the harbor would be mined at midnight.

Bilbao is filled with government militiamen who fled near-by San Sebastian when it was abandoned to the rebels Saturday.

The United States destroyer Kane, which a few weeks ago was a target of an unsuccessful rebel attack, arrived in this French port tonight with the United States consul at Bilbao, W. E. Chapman, and his wife. The consul had been abandoned.

Government fighters determined to protect their remaining northern strongholds at Bilbao from attack by land or sea. Their leaders said they would also attempt to mine the harbor of San Sebastian.

Floating explosives, they said, would be strung across the harbor of Portugalete—the port of Bilbao—at midnight after British destroyers and the German cruiser Schleswig Holstein had been driven out.

The government said it expected the Fascists would subject the city to heavy air bombardment preceding a land attack.

The destroyer Kane also carried 80 Spanish refugees who were taken to Bordeaux.

The insurgent forces of General Emilio Mola turned their attention toward their main objective—Madrid.

Confident his army is secure against attack from the rear with San Sebastian and Irun occupied and non-Fascist forces scattered in defeat, General Mola was reported ready to transfer a considerable part of his strength to the mountains barring the way to the capital.

Mishap Fails to Dim Youth's School Hopes
Despite a possible fractured skull, suffered when he fell from the running board of an automobile into the path of another car, William Oris Barnett, 13, a deaf-mute, hopes to be able to enter school next week.

The boy, who lives at Chattahoochee, has carried a small box with him for months. From time to time, friends have dropped coins into the box, as contributions to his school fund.

He was admitted to Grady hospital last yesterday afternoon. The accident occurred on the Bolton and Carroll roads.

ATTACK BY NEWSPAPER REGRETTED BY FRANCE
PARIS, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The French government today regretted the attack by a newspaper on the French ambassador in the United States.

The newspaper, Action Francaise, charged Bullitt was acting as a "Soviet agent," and accused him of pro-Russian sympathies.

(Bullitt, former United States ambassador to Moscow, in Washington today, termed the newspaper attack "too absurd and too ridiculous to warrant any comment.")

The French government regrets were expressed through Pierre Viot, of the foreign office.

The incident was considered closed by officials at both the French foreign office and the American embassy.

The newspaper charged Bullitt was trying to promote Franco-German war "which Dictator Josef Stalin, of Russia, desires."

CYCLIST BADLY HURT IN TRUCK COLLISION
A collision yesterday afternoon between a bicyclist and a truck equipped with a concrete mixer, at Gilmer and Butler streets, resulted in admission of Eugene Benton, 19, negro, of 88 Bell street, to Grady hospital suffering a broken back and fractures of the skull and legs. His condition was reported last night as "very critical."

When the accident occurred, according to police, Benton was riding west on Gilmer and the truck, driven by Cleve Alexander, 39, of 101 Howell street, was going north on Butler. Detectives Dick Englebert and Robert Denny said investigation revealed Benton was "riding too fast." However a technical charge of reckless driving was placed against Alexander.

GIRL STRUCK BY AUTO, SUFFERS BROKEN LEG
Struck down by an automobile on Jones avenue, near the A. B. & C. railroad crossing, Miss Annie Mae Mullins, 15, of 626 Jones avenue, N. W., was injured at 8:15 o'clock last night.

She was taken to Grady hospital. Doctors said she suffered a fractured left leg and cuts and bruises of the face and body. A short time after the accident, a man listed as Ralph Goodman, 40, of 1011 Jones avenue, was arrested on a charge of suspicion of reckless driving. Goodman denied knowledge of the accident, asserting he was attending a movie at the time it allegedly occurred.

FOOTBALL TAX FIGHT OPENS IN U. S. COURT

Georgia and Tech Seek To Prevent Collection of Grid Receipts Tax.

A football fan's dollar goes a long way in many ways in the support of numerous activities in the life of an average university. It was demonstrated yesterday by H. J. Stegeman, athletic director and dean of men at the University of Georgia.

Stegeman, former coach at the university and a stimulating figure in the athletic life of that school for 22 years, testified in federal court in a suit based on the federal government's efforts to collect income taxes from intercollegiate sports.

The University of Georgia and Georgia Tech are fighting shoulder to shoulder to prevent collection of these taxes, basing their argument on the theory that amateur collegiate sports are non-profit-making and that the funds brought in through the box office merely make it possible for the school to support athletes of all branches without draining the pocketbook of the state taxpayers who are supporting the university system.

"Fixed admissions are based each year on possible expenses," Stegeman explained. "We have to consider the cost and maintenance of the plant and equipment for the students who participate in the games. We use surplus funds to build or improve gymnasiums."

Football is a good money-maker, Stegeman admitted, but this money is needed for the support of other sports over to the bringing in equal profits, or which bring in no profit at all.

Every student at the university, Stegeman pointed out, is required to enroll in physical culture classes, some form and to engage in intramural athletics. The football intake goes into the athletic fund and from this fund these mass sports are supported.

For girl students, the university offers outdoor hockey, horseback riding, swimming, shooting, fencing and other suitable sports. Men students engage in intramural football, baseball, hockey, swimming and a similar long list of other sports. No student, Stegeman said, can be graduated without two years of physical education if he does not take military training.

Disposition of Equipment.
Old equipment from the football gymnasium, such as sun-ray machines and other gadgets that can be used for the building of bodies, are turned over to the school infirmary, Stegeman pointed out.

Academic branches of the school frequently borrow money from the football funds to meet deficits; student dances are supported on a small percentage basis by athletic funds, and very little is left from one year to another, particularly since football lost its big profits at the gate in recent years, Stegeman explained.

Stegeman told attorneys for the government, upon questioning, that the athletic association contributes to the general scholarship fund of the University of Georgia, and that this fund is administered by a committee made up of members of the faculty.

$71,000 in Admissions.
He said approximately $8,000 was given to the scholarship fund in 1934, when football brought in about $71,000 in admissions. Twenty-four football players participated in the scholarship fund which helped 400 students.

Stegeman said that so far as he knew the 24 being football players had no part in determining the amount of help they received in their college education.

It was brought out from Stegeman that Harry Mehre, football coach, is paid an annual salary of $7,000, and that other coaches are paid from $2,000 to $4,000, according to rank.

Marion Smith, Atlanta lawyer, and M. E. (Buster) Kilpatrick, former Georgia football star, are attorneys for the board of regents. They objected to the salary of Mehre being put in the testimony, but were overruled by Judge Underwood.

He announced today by the West Side Funeral Home.

Surviving her, in addition to her parents, are four sisters, Annie May, Elizabeth, Flossie and Susie DeLong.

GOVERNOR WHITE SEEKS INDUSTRIES

Mississippi Executive Cites 'Unsettled Conditions,' Urges Legislation.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Governor Hugh White's plan for attracting "unsettled" industries to Mississippi from northern and eastern industrial centers by direct public support was presented to the state legislature tonight.

Within six hours after the legislature convened in extraordinary session and elected the governor's candidate for speaker of the house—Fielding L. Wright, of Rolling Fork—by acclamation, the chief executive made a personal appeal for enactment of his far-reaching industrial program.

Declaring that industries in the north and east are in an "unsettled" condition, urging new fields of development, Governor White urged the legislature to speedily approve laws which he hopes will bring a "balance" between agriculture and industry in this state.

YOUTH DENIES SLAYING.
WINNAPPA, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A youthful confessor of participation in a slaying slaying attempted tonight to shift to his 19-year-old convicted accomplice the blame for the killing of Patrolman Lawrence Robbins. Prosecutor Louis J. Schneider said Frank Keegan said Alonzo Thompson, Chesapeake, W. Va., youth now serving a life sentence, suggested the holdup that led to the killing and fired the fatal shot.

PLAY SAFE! GET SILVERTOWNS
the Only Tires that give you Golden Ply Blow-out Protection

Driver: "A little more and that blow-out would have sent us clean through this fence and down the bank."
Girl: "We should have known that sooner or later gambling on tires ends this way."

When high-speed blow-out accidents are happening week in and week out, isn't it important to make sure that the tires on your car are specially constructed to give you real protection against this danger?

Remember, Goodrich Safety Silvertowns differ from all other tires made today. And here's why: They're the only tires in the world with the Life-Saver Golden Ply, a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist the terrific blow-out-causing heat generated inside all tires by today's high speeds. By resisting this heat, the Golden Ply keeps rubber and fabric from separating. It keeps blisters from forming. Thus, the dangerous high-speed blow-out that might have caused a serious accident doesn't get a start.

And with winter not far away, don't forget that Silvertowns will also protect you from dangerous "tail spin" skids. The big ribs in the center of the tread act like the windshield wiper on your car, sweeping away water—giving the double outer rows of hunky Silvertown cleats a drier surface to grip.

Don't gamble on tires. Prove to yourself what marvelous safety—months of extra mileage and real riding comfort you'll get with Goodrich Silvertowns. And imagine! They cost much less than other super-quality tires.

CITY PAY RESTORATION
NOW APPEARS REMOTE

Overestimate of $106,000 in Receipts Hiked to $123,227, Says Auditor.

Prospects appeared remote yesterday that the city government will find the $300,000 necessary to reimburse for the rest of the year 5 per cent of the 10 per cent salary cuts now imposed on nonschool employees making $100 or more a month.

Budget commission members met in preliminary session for a survey and a study of city receipts as compared to actual demands for operation of the remainder of the year. The cursory examination showed that the $106,000 over estimate on the receipt side carried in the January finance sheet, will be pushed to $123,227 on the basis of a report by Ham Eldon, city auditor.

Deficit Increases.
When the January finance sheet was compiled, administration leaders placed $106,000 on the receipt side as a bookkeeping figure, realizing that it would not be collected. This figure, or the deficit for the year, will be increased to $123,227, according to Eldon.

R. Graham West, comptroller, just back from attending a meeting of municipal finance heads at Toronto, was instructed to make a detailed study of the city's fiscal problems and be ready to file a report with the commission at a meeting to be held at 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

Water Receipts Gain.
Water department receipts, however, showed an increase of about $15,000; recorder's court fines a gain of about $10,000, and another $8,000 is expected from city business licenses.

On the other hand, Clarke Donaldson, chief of construction, is asking for $11,515 as the remainder of the city's share of the expense of extending Whitehall street from Gordon street into Lee street. The project will cost about $300,000 and is to be prosecuted by federal government money, but the State Highway Department demanded and was promised funds from the local government. Atlanta agreed to expend $52,831 and the $11,515 is the remaining sum which has not been paid.

In addition, the garage department must have an additional $5,000 for gasoline and tire purchases. Grady hospital is asking for $5,000 for supplies. Battle Hill will file a demand for supplementary supplies, and the waterworks department must have $5,000 for coal for large pumps.

RICHMAN, PILOT CRASH IN NEWFOUNDLAND BOG

Harbor to here clacked out the news that the big silver-blue monoplane had come down on the bleak Newfoundland coast.

The fliers left New York September 2 and landed in Wales the next day. Following an 11-day wait for favorable weather conditions they left Speke airbase where they originally planned to take off from and flew to Southport.

The plane passed over Dublin one hour and 17 minutes after the take-off, and started over the Atlantic at night. The Cunard liner Ausonia, 260 miles west of Ireland, saw a monoplane flying at 3,000 feet and faint signals from the Lady Peace were heard during the night but first definite word did not arrive until a few hours before the crash.

Only a week ago Mrs. Beryl Markham, first woman to cross the Atlantic westward alone, crashed near Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, after following the same route that the Lady Peace took.

The fliers had planned to be in New York at about 6 o'clock tonight. Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, general manager of Eastern Air Lines, prepared an emergency rescue flight in New York. He was waiting for more definite information.

Rickenbacker telegraphed Merrill: "Advise immediately, rush, if ship repairable and what parts necessary. Are either of you hurt? We are prepared to leave for Boston tonight, leaving Boston at 4 a. m. (tomorrow) for Harbor Grace, Rush answer, Rickenbacker."

The fliers battled headwinds the first third of their flight. The winds gradually shifted but as they approached Cape Race they met 400 miles of squally weather. Once through this, however, the Lady Peace would have had smooth flying down the coast with a stiff tail wind pushing it along.

Musgrave Harbor is a wind-swept coastal village with less than 100 fishermen, most of whom are of the Irish descent.

It is 60 miles west of Cape Race. Communication was slow because the village apparently lacked telephones. Eastern Air Lines said they failed to contact the ship after the crash, indicating the radio was damaged.

her in the chest near her home, beaten her over the head with his shotgun until the barrel of the gun was bent under the pounding and had left her to die in a lonely spot on a road, just a few miles from where she had lived as a girl. Then they told of their fear that he would be acquitted and how they had decided to take the law into their own hands.

That, Worth and Pence Brown, the brothers, said today, is why they shot Harry P. Howe to death at the back door of the Paulding county courthouse as he was being led into the building to be given a hearing on a charge of murder.

Howe's Escape, Arrest.
The shooting of Howe occurred August 11. Howe was charged with the murder of his wife, Hattie Howe, sister of the two Browns, in April. The day after the murdered body of the woman was found, it was revealed, Howe had telephoned to Paulding county officials from a lawyer's office in Atlanta, offering to surrender if he would be allowed to plead guilty. His overtures to a compromise were rejected. He fled, but was captured in Chicago in August. The Browns said yesterday that Howe then moved for a change of venue, declaring it would be impossible for him to get a fair trial in Paulding county. He was to be given a hearing on this move when the Browns showed him way.

Tell of Their Youth.
Worth Brown, one of the brothers, said from the stand today, and the story was reiterated by his brother, Pence Brown, that they were both killed. My mother was left alone with all our children to raise. The man who killed my father was given five years in jail. He was pardoned. We always thought that was hard on our mother and our boys and girls.

It was this fear of the law's uncertain movements that led them to avenge the slaying of their sister, both men declared. "They were both afraid Howe would never face trial, or would possibly win a compromise, or a change of venue, and they had that bitter memory of their childhood days prodding their desire to see justice done," they said.

"Howe was that sort of man," said Worth Brown. "He thought he could kill Hattie and then dictate to the court what his sentence could be."

Howe, the dead man, was represented in court by Attorney General H. C. Hutchens, who just two months ago was seeking to convict him for the murder of his wife. No relative or friend appeared in Howe's behalf to complain against the Browns.

Browns' Mother Present.
With the Browns sat their aged mother, Mrs. Emma Brown, and their wives. Four lawyers were grouped at the defense table: C. R. McGarrity, chief counsel; H. A. Allen, of Atlanta, who led the cross-examination; Walton Hall, of Atlanta, and W. L. Denton, who sat merely as aids.

The trial is being conducted before Judge J. R. Hutcheson and a jury consisting of J. E. O'Neal, farmer; H. M. Caldwell, farmer; W. D. Gravett, farmer; J. L. Gamel, farmer; H. M. Mobler, school teacher and farmer; W. S. Newkirk, farmer; J. B. Ratterree, farmer; J. T. Gamel, textile worker; W. C. Creighton, blacksmith; L. W. Smith, farmer; Jim Watts, farmer, and D. W. Winn, farmer.

The jury was chosen before 1 p. m., the trial having started at 9 a. m. Sixty-five veniremen were examined. The prosecution closed at about 3 p. m., introducing only those who had seen Howe shot down, as everyone described it, "under the last cedar tree in the row at the back steps of the courthouse." The cedars border a path leading from the jail to the court building.

Described as Bootlegger.
Howe was described freely in court as "an Atlanta bootlegger with a still south of town." He met Hattie Brown in Atlanta and married her, after inducing her to "run a rooming house for him," according to both brothers.

"Howe beat my sister all the time," said Pence Brown. "We were told he bent her one time with a shoe, broke three of her ribs and left footprints all over her body."

Hattie, according to both brothers, tired of the beatings and agreed to surrender all the property she had—a small farm—if he would take her home to her mother, Howe agreed. They drove toward Dallas and on the way stopped at the home of a sister, Mrs. Etta Ross, to whom Hattie confided her unhappiness. Howe beat her, Hattie told her sister, with an automobile blackjack, when police raided his still and he accused her of "squealing." In that beating he broke another rib, and it was that beating that had induced Hattie to leave her husband and go back to her mother.

Cut Off Her Finger.
"At one time," Worth told the jury, readying from his pad, "Howe took her outside the house when she was visiting us and cut her finger off, telling her he would cut her throat just like that if she didn't do what he told her to do, whenever he told her."

Howe took his wife home to her mother when Mrs. Etta Ross insisted, and that night, in a roadway just a few miles from Dallas, he stepped into his truck, shot his wife and then bent her prostrate form, officers claim.

Testimony is that he drove away and that his truck was wrecked just a few miles away from where his wife's body lay in the lonely woods road, where she was the prey of wild animals, according to the coroner's testimony. Howe managed to negotiate a ride to Atlanta, tried to barter with the officers of Paulding county the next day, and then fled to Chicago, where he was captured.

After Howe was arrested in Chicago he was taken to Atlanta and locked up in Fulton tower for safekeeping until court could be assembled in Dallas for his trial on charges of murder, and to hear his motions for a continuance and for a change of venue.

Howe Shot Down.
Howe was brought to Dallas August 10 and locked up for safekeeping. The next morning, he was being led to court, flanked by Sheriff J. F. Couch, Deputies John G. Camp and Ned Williams and Bailiff S. C. Leggett, the two brothers of the dead woman stepped from behind a tree at the rear of the courthouse. Each had a pistol in his hand, and before the surprised guards could seize them, four bullets had been fired into Howe.

It is for this that they are being tried. The trial will be resumed this morning at 9:30 o'clock (Atlanta time).

Men, women and children today jammed the big courtroom to hear the details of the two slayings. Women, with infants in their arms, gathering other small children about their knees, are plentiful in the courtroom.

No denial is being offered by either brother. Each maintains that after viewing the body of his sister, the desire for vengeance preyed on his mind. They maintain their minds were blank at the time they shot Howe down. The defenses to be offered the jury are curiously intermingled pleas of temporary insanity and justifiable homicide.

Brothers on Trial as Vengeance Slayers

Two brothers, of middle years, are shown as they sat in the Paulding county superior court yesterday, freely admitting that they killed their sister's slayer, her husband. Worth Brown, left, and Pence Brown, right, declared that they did "what any man would have done" as they recounted years of suffering by their sister, beaten freely by Harry Howe, Atlanta bootlegger, who finally murdered her in a lonely road in Paulding county and left her body on the roadside. Roar of Battles.
The utterances of Hitler climaxed a day filled with the roar of battles at times so realistic that observers found it difficult to realize they were only "games."

The snarl of airplane motors overhead mingled with the spattering of tanks and machine guns "attacking and defending" on the grassy Zeppelin meadow that has been the central scene of activities throughout the Nazi party convention.

The silvery dirigible Hindenburg soared majestically over the trim bombers and pursuit planes, wheeling and diving on the dots of men and smoke below.

When the din had died down, Der Fuehrer addressed the thousands of fighting men as their commander-in-chief.

"When I look at you," he cried, "I know that Germany will be maintained against all threats and dangers. The German always has been a good soldier. If Germany once failed, it was due to an inner collapse."

Worthy of Soldiers.
"But today Germany again is worthy of its soldiers. You, my comrades, are worthy soldiers of the third reich."

How many airplanes Hitler has in his command tonight still remained undisclosed military secret, but today's display was interpreted as a sample of the air armada distributed throughout the nation.

The thousands of watchers' necks stiff from craning skyward, the "games" suddenly centered on an infantry attack led by cavalry units.

Horses galloped about pulling field pieces into position speedily. Motorized artillery and lumbering tanks rumbled through the haze of battle.

That was the morning performance. The 25,000 soldiers and participants knocked off for lunch, then gave a duplicate matinee, before an estimated 150,000.

As a grand climax 20,000 troops, 400 warplanes and the Zeppelin Hindenburg filed before Hitler's eyes and upraised arm.

G. O. P. SEES 'VICTORY' IN SOUTHERN VOTING

Harry Sommers Quoted as Saying 3 State Primaries Are Democratic Losses.

Republican national headquarters in Chicago yesterday released a statement from Harry Sommers, Atlanta automobile man, and Republican committeeman, in which he claimed that the Democratic primaries in three southern states represented heavy losses and not a "deal" victory.

"Democratic claims of victory in Mississippi, South Carolina and Georgia were absolutely unfounded," Sommers was quoted as saying. He had just completed a swing through eastern and western states and reported "the sentiment for Governor Alf Landrum everywhere was growing every day."

Sommers said in 1932 Roosevelt received 68 per cent of the combined Republican and Democratic vote in South Carolina and in this year's primary only 56 per cent of the votes in which no Republican participated. Likewise in Mississippi he claimed, the Democrats lost 31 per cent of their former strength.

"The recent Georgia 'victory' which has been so widely heralded by Roosevelt and his henchmen also resulted in a loss to Roosevelt," he argued. "In 1932, the President polled 92 per cent of the combined Republican and Democratic vote. This year, his good friend, Senator Richard B. Russell, received only 65 per cent of the straight Democratic vote in the primary."

"If the losses have been only as great as they were in South Carolina, Roosevelt would lose California, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Rhode Island, Utah, West Virginia and Wyoming, all of which he carried in 1932."

The loss of those states would leave Roosevelt only 198 electoral votes instead of the required 266, Sommers said.

V. F. W. HEAR APPEALS FOR WAR PREPARATION

DENVER, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Demands that the United States stay out of war were mingled with warnings to the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars today to "prepare to fight."

The warnings and pleas for peace were voiced by Admiral Richmond P. Hobson, retired, a hero of the Spanish-American War, Senator Frederick Steiwer, Republican, Oregon, and James E. Van Zandt, national commander.

The three speakers emphasized that the United States should avoid "entangling alliances" in Europe and be ready to fight for peace.

Van Zandt, a World War I veteran, reiterated the V. F. W. policy of pensions for disabled veterans only.

Pope Pius Calls on World Powers To Stop Reds 'If It Isn't Too Late'

By ANDREW DERDING.

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press.)

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Sept. 14.—Age-weary Pope Pius summoned the world today to stand firm against the threatening "program of hate, subversion and destruction—Communism."

Speaking to 500 refugees from Spain's civil war and to far corners of the earth by the radio, the 73-year-old Holy Father appealed for a crusade of prayer against forces that menace "the very foundation of all order, all culture and all civilization."

Sadly, grieving that war in Spain has hurled "brother against brother," he beseeched all nations to "oppose these great evils" to prevent chaos.

"If, indeed, it is not already too late," he said.

The pontiff, in white cassock, mantle and red slippers, spoke from the throne at his summer residence here. His voice, low pitched at first, gradually became strong and pulsated with feeling.

About him were the refugees, among them many priests garbed in clerical robes for the first time since they fled from Spain in civilian dress.

To them the Holy Father addressed special prayers of hatred and war, he said, "like the first apostles, found worthy to suffer."

"You have been robbed and despoiled of all things. You have been hunted and sought unto for your faith in the solitude of mountain tops."

"You have come to tell us of your joy in having been found worthy, like the first apostles, to suffer for the name of Jesus."

But for the persecutors in Spain, Pope Pius told his audience, "we cannot and could not for one moment doubt as to what is left for us to do."

"To love them, and love them with a special love born of mercy and compassion, to love them, and since we can do nothing else, to pray for them."

"To pray that a serene vision of truth will illumine their minds and will reopen their hearts to desire and fraternal quest for real common good."

Incidents of the Spanish war, the Holy father said, are "something more than a mere succession, however impressive, or devastation and disaster."

"They are likewise a school in which the most serious lessons are being taught to Europe and the whole world."

"These tragic happenings in Spain speak to Europe and the whole world and proclaim once more to what extent the very foundations of all order, all culture and all civilization are being menaced."

"Satanic preparation," the pontiff said sadly, has reigned in Spain "for the purpose of the most complete and thorough preparation for the coming of the Antichrist."

"The most horrifying of all, he said, of the Spanish conflict: 'Brothers have been killed by brothers.'"

Key Denies 'Clique' Connection; Police Issue Is Stressed by Rival

Conduct of 'My Office' Is Hartsfield Declares City Open to Any Voter, Mayor Asserts.

Executive Has Taken 'Runout' on Chief.

Asserting that he has never been connected in a derogatory way with any ring, that he runs his own office and that "my public record is eloquent testimony that I have always stood solidly for my personal convictions of what was best for the city of Atlanta," Mayor Key yesterday issued the following statement in behalf of his candidacy for nomination to a new term on September 22.

"Hartsfield has made a lot of noise about the 'little crowd' that is running the city, insinuating that my public record in office is dictated by some clique."

"I hardly need to deny this before the people of Atlanta. They know that I am not run by any men or any interest. My public record is eloquent testimony that I have always stood solidly for my personal convictions of what was best for the city of Atlanta."

"The citizens of this community have never been left in doubt as to my position on public issues. I have served the public frankly in my views, and I have steadfastly adhered to those things that I believe to be right and which would promote our common good as a better place in which to live."

"My name has never been connected and never will be connected in a derogatory way with the activities of any ring. The conduct of the mayor's office by me on any public issue has been dictated by the common sense of the people."

"I have found from experience, and I am sure that you have, that the man who cries, 'wolf! wolf!' the loudest, is the one who has the fewest skeletons in the closet himself."

Asserting that he has never been connected in a derogatory way with any ring, that he runs his own office and that "my public record is eloquent testimony that I have always stood solidly for my personal convictions of what was best for the city of Atlanta," Mayor Key yesterday issued the following statement in behalf of his candidacy for nomination to a new term on September 22.

"Hartsfield has made a lot of noise about the 'little crowd' that is running the city, insinuating that my public record in office is dictated by some clique."

"I hardly need to deny this before the people of Atlanta. They know that I am not run by any men or any interest. My public record is eloquent testimony that I have always stood solidly for my personal convictions of what was best for the city of Atlanta."

"The citizens of this community have never been left in doubt as to my position on public issues. I have served the public frankly in my views, and I have steadfastly adhered to those things that I believe to be right and which would promote our common good as a better place in which to live."

"My name has never been connected and never will be connected in a derogatory way with the activities of any ring. The conduct of the mayor's office by me on any public issue has been dictated by the common sense of the people."

"I have found from experience, and I am sure that you have, that the man who cries, 'wolf! wolf!' the loudest, is the one who has the fewest skeletons in the closet himself."

AVALANCHE SURVIVORS WILL LEAVE DISTRICT
LOEN, Hungary, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Survivors of Sunday's tragic avalanche and flood in the beautiful Lake Loen valley tonight prepared to flee the district, fearing new catastrophes.

Masses of rock, loosened by Sunday's death-dealing slide, hung precariously from ledges on the Rognes mountains.

Sounds like thunder from time to time warned survivors that small landslides were still being felt.

Nineteen bodies of the tragedy's victims were temporarily laid out in a small schoolhouse, but 74 persons including 30 children were still unreported.

COTTON CONSUMPTION SHOWS GAIN IN NATION

Continuing Decline in Exports Revealed in U. S. Census Bureau Report.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—American manufacturers used 165,964 more bales of cotton this August than last but United States exports of the staple fell 59,997 bales short of the level record for the month in 1935.

The sharp jump in domestic consumption, and the continuing decline in exports of this chief agricultural export, were disclosed today in a census bureau report.

The August figures were the first made public since the previous marketing season ended July 31, with a record of increases both in domestic consumption and exports.

Cotton consumed last month was placed at 2,280,280 bales, compared with 408,325 in August, 1935. August exports amounted to 182,487 bales, compared with 241,484 bales in the same month last year.

Cotton exports at the agriculture department said the decline in world sales of the American staple began last June and the same month last year.

There were 156,262 bales, listed by the census bureau as the lowest point since 1923.

The government spokesmen said the recent decline in world sales was caused by the relatively high price of American cotton compared with competitive growths, and the high prices of old cotton ready for spot sales in relation to future prices to be paid for later delivery.

War-torn Spain took only 279 bales of cotton last month, compared with 2,220 in July, 16,167 in June and 4,570 in August, 1935.

Only the United Kingdom increased its takings of the American staple in August compared with the previous year.

The domestic picture was termed bright by the government experts. They said while mill stocks were slightly higher, stocks in warehouses were less than last year.

Milling activity last month also spurred above that of the previous month, and the same month last year.

There were 23,433,658 cotton spindles active in August, 22,046,186 active last August and 23,495,712 in July.

Cotton exports to foreign countries last month and the same month in 1935: United Kingdom, 61,159 and 41,474; France, 29,968 and 34,052; Italy, 24,315 and 27,220; Belgium, 18,216 and 28,275; Spain, 279 and 4,570; Belgium, 3,792 and 7,540; other European countries, 21,748 and 31,131; Japan, 24,315 and 27,220; Canada, 9,443 and 10,822; and all other, 2,745 and 3,038.

AUBURN ELEVEN PLACED ON SPOT ON EARLY DOPE

By Paul Duncan.

AUBURN, Ala., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Auburn, after years of gunning for upset football victories, suddenly finds itself this season on the spot as the Southeastern Conference favorite.

Chief reasons for Auburn's return to prominence in Coach Jack Meagher's third season are 12 seniors, headed by Walter Gilbert, 200-pound center, who was voted the south's best last year.

The Tigers' first-string roster lists only seniors, with the exception of the halfbacks, Jimmie Fenton and Billy Hitchcock, who plugged the same gaps as sophomores last season.

Tackle and fullback material is inadequate for the grueling schedule Auburn faces this fall, largely due to the loss of Haygood Patterson, All-Southeastern tackle, and Buny O'Rourke, fullback.

Herbert Roton will fill the gap at tackle, with Wilton Kilgore stepping into the fullback job. Reserves for these "gap-closers" are scarce.

LEAGUE PENNANT WITH 5 TO 4 WIN

COLUMBUS, Ga., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Columbus staged a garrison finish to a fine season here today by pulling a spectacular last-inning rally to defeat the Jacksonville Tars 5-4 and win the South Atlantic league pennant.

Herb Bremer, Bird catcher, was the big hero of the day, clearing a long home run over the left-field fence to score the winning run.

The Birds went into the last frame trailing by two runs, and it appeared as if another game would have to be played. Gruzda opened with a double and Bremer came to bat and practically tacked the flag on the local flagpole with a long homer far over the left-center wall.

The tying and winning runs were scored off Bremer, who was hit by a pitch-hitter in the eighth, was given credit for the victory.

TOUGH CARD.
Biggest obstacle to an undefeated season at Auburn is not a lack of seasoned gridmen, but a break-neck schedule that sends the Tigers from Detroit to San Francisco.

THE SCHEDULE.
September 25, Birmingham-Southern at Montgomery (night game); October 3, Tulane at New Orleans; October 10, Tennessee at Knoxville; October 17, Detroit at Detroit; October 24, Georgia at Columbus; October 31, Santa Clara at San Francisco; November 7, Georgia Tech at Atlanta; November 14, Louisiana State at Birmingham; November 21, Loyola of New Orleans at Auburn; November 28, Florida at Montgomery.

Horse Guard Beats Fort in Polo 6 to 4

The Governor's Horse Guard polo team scored a 6-to-4 victory in a close game with the Fort McPherson team Sunday afternoon.

J. B. Nunes, Jimmy Henderson and Harvey Lindsey made a goal each for the Horse Guards in the second period.

The Fort's one goal of that period was by Colonel Billy Wyche.

In the third chucker Wesley Moran and Bill Smith ran up two more goals for the Horse Guard team. Fort McPherson scored an inning in the fourth period with Dave Hedeken and Colonel Wyche contributing two goals.

The game was a skillful free-shot goal in the sixth and last chucker. The free shot was awarded the blues because of a foul made by a Horse Guard player.

Gerald Graham took a dangerous spill when his pony, Toby, lost his footing and fell. Graham passed up a ride on the white ambulance and finished the game on Toby, scoring the final goal for the Guards.

There will be a game next Sunday.

Bisons Take Rest, Play-Off Continues
By The Associated Press.

The pennant-winning Buffalo Bisons, another step along the road to a clean sweep of the season's honors in the International league, rested today while Rochester and Baltimore continued their playoff date.

The Bisons advanced to the final playoff series yesterday with a 7-4 victory over the Newark Bears, who wound up third in the regular campaign after an overtime duel with the Rochester Red Wings.

The Bears were eliminated from further contention for the governors' cup and a berth in the Little World Series as they lost four out of five to Buffalo.

Yates, Barnes Win Victories

Cleveland, 6 and 5. Taylor, enjoying the comparative calm of late afternoon, duplicated Fischer's feat in trouncing Virgil Scott Jr. of Houston, Texas, 7 and 5.

Most favorites, including Omaha's Johnny Goodman and Seattle's Scotty Campbell, the co-choices in tournament wagers, emerged safely from their first tests but the day's firing took a considerable toll in so-called upsets.

HAAS BEATEN.
Chief among the casualties was Freddie Haas Jr. of New Orleans, the newly-crowned Canadian Amateur champion. Haas lost a sensational duel with the Long Island amateur, Charlie Mayo Jr., 1 up.

The southern star, able to square the match only once, missed golden opportunities on the 15th, where he over-shot the green, and the 17th, where he three-putted.

SAVES DIXIE.
Atlanta's Charles Yates, former Western Amateur champion, averted a threatened rout of the southern brigade by rallying to square the day's final match with Dick Jones Jr. of New York on the 18th green and then win, 1 up, on the first extra hole. Yates, trailing at the turn, squared the match at the 12th, lost the 13th, but drew level again at the short 18th with a par 3, as Jones was bunkered.

The New Yorker, on the 19th, conceded a birdie 3 to Yates, and the match was one down at the turn. Jones, after he missed two shots, enabled Yates to save a half in four. This left him one up but the Georgian lost the sixth and eighth.

Yates out 534 546 554-41
Jones out 444 644 544-39
Jones went two up at the tenth, winning the hole with a par four as Yates second was short. The Georgian squared the match by winning the 12th and 13th with pars as Jones hit a streak of wildness.

The New Yorker went into the lead again on the 17th. Yates hooked his drive into the fairway and Jones played out safely as Jones sliced into the rough and still was in the heavily matted grass after his second. They played their third shots in the front of the green, both about 35 feet short of the cup. Yates putted eight feet past and Jones four feet. The Atlanta missed and Jones holed out for a winning four.

Jones' tee shot on the short 18th landed in the deep pot-hole trap in front of the green. Unable to take a stance facing the pin, he exploded laterally and barely missed a 35 footer for a par. Yates drove the green, 50 feet past the cup and got down in two putts to square the match.

On the extra hole both drove into the tall bunker cutting through the fairway. Yates lobbed the ball onto the green three feet beyond the cup, while Jones hit into a trap fronting the green, exploded strongly over the carpet and then, after chipping back, conceded the hole and the match to Yates.

Yates in 543 545 463-30-50
Jones in 444 645 454-40-79

Tommy Barnes, Atlanta, went 20 holes before defeating Spencer Overton, of Cantonville, Mo., 1 up.

The other two entries from the Atlanta district lost. Gordon Taylor defeated Alvin Everett, of Rome, 6 and 4, and Jess Sweetser defeated Tommy Wright, 2 and 1.

Mary Carr Honored at Surprise Party Given by Lillian Broward

By Sally Forth.

YESTERDAY afternoon Mary Carr had a date with Cornelia Callo-way, and the idea was firmly established in her pretty head that they would go to a movie. Little did she think that her movie date would culminate in a surprise party in her honor. En route to town, Cornelia informed Mary that she would be forced to stop by Lillian Broward's home on Parkside drive. When they arrived there, Mary found herself the central figure at a surprise party given by Lillian, who had assembled a group of the younger set to bid au revoir to the lovely belle, who leaves the latter part of the month to resume her studies at Mary Baldwin College in Virginia.

The entire affair worked out beautifully and according to the plans of the hostess, Mary's surprise was so natural that it was some time before the hostess and guests could calm her long enough to present her with a shower of gaily-colored handkerchiefs, a welcome addition to her college trousseau. Mrs. C. H. Broward, mother of the hostess, and Mrs. J. S. Carr, the honoree's mother, assisted in entertaining and no doubt found a thrill reminiscent of their own college days.

The tie of friendship between Lillian and Mary, which had its beginning during their grammar school days, was further strengthened by the giving of the surprise party. The two young chums attended North Fulton High school and were popular members of the O. B. X. Club. Last year they attended Mary Baldwin, but this year Lillian decided to remain here and attend Oglethorpe University, and Mary returns to the Virginia college to enter the sophomore class.

THREE attractive sub-debs, Buncie Fuller, Virginia Willis and Betty York, are good friends, and they shared a room on a house party at Lakemont recently. It is always nice to have a brush handy to wipe off suede shoes and pocketbooks, and Buncie and Betty found one living about that apparently belonged to nobody. It proved a great convenience to them until the day Virginia spied it on the dressing table, and exclaimed, "Oh, my long lost tooth brush!" and proceeded to take it into the bathroom and brush her teeth. Two surprised young ladies looked at each other and gasped. It was not until Virginia had finished brushing her teeth that they summoned up sufficient courage to tell her the truth. Virginia took it very well, and the matter was not mentioned again.

A few days later, Mrs. Hugh Hodgson, at whose home they were visiting, suggested that the girls retire early, as they had been up quite late for several nights. Virginia offered to squeeze the tooth paste on all their tooth brushes so as to save time when they came home from their dates. Returning later in the evening, the girls went in and began to use the prepared brushes. Two surprised young ladies looked at each other, but this time the joke was on them. The "tooth paste" was zinc ointment, and Virginia had had her revenge.

ATLANTA is in danger of losing popular Jimmy Calhoun to New York city, for on a recent visit to the metropolis Jimmy received such glowing comments from prominent musicians who heard him sing that he is considering returning to New York for study. Jimmy was attending the recent Chi Phi convention when he secured an audition with Ernie

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

ALBANY, N. Y., Sunday.—The weather is glorious with a real tinge of autumn in the air. After nearly 10 days entirely out of a big city, it makes one loathe wending one's way back to one, even for a short time. Tomorrow we must first go to New York and then to Washington, and a busy round of formal living will begin again.

Today, however, I want to continue a little on the subject I began in my last article. I am constantly being besieged by letters which ask that I do something to make domestic service an occupation as well considered as any other kind of work by which a woman earns her living. It seems to me that this can never be done overnight, for it requires the education of both the mistress and the maid. Even writing minimum standards for domestic servants is a difficult job. Every man's home is his castle, and every man's home requires a different kind of service.

The younger people will find it easier to fall into new ways. If we have maids on an eight-hour basis and live up to certain rules and regulations, the new generation will not find it so hard.

The older people, on the other hand, many of them kindness itself, find it particularly difficult to understand that kindness is not exactly what is needed, but that every individual wishes an opportunity to live a life of his own for a certain number of hours out of every 24.

That is why factory work is preferred by so many young people to work in domestic service. Yet, there is a great field for rendering really helpful service, and perhaps more opportunities for employment in this field than in any other at the present time.

I think, perhaps, that one of the best things that could happen to us would be to go back to the practices of our great-grandmothers. If they had a large household to run they did not just hire people and expect them to do all the work.

Sometimes they invited their friends to let them teach their daughters how to keep house, or they took on girls from the neighborhood. They paid them, but they worked with them. That would make a different thing of domestic service right away, wouldn't it? However, along with it would have to go the obligation that no one worked too hard or too long, that no one was underpaid, and so I suppose there would have to be some kind of checking up even on these home occupations.

My grandmother, or my mother-in-law could run this kind of house excellently. I am not so sure that many of my generation would come out so well. I am sure that if we are going to solve this very pressing question we have to give it some thought and we have to get started. Perhaps the Department of Labor, or the unions, will take it up and tell us what we should do.

Arthur Cain, Rushin' Off to Russia, Ponders Trek Over Frigid Wastes

Arthur Cain, the thumb-twirling Atlanta man who set out early in the spring of 1935 to hitchhike his way across the face of the globe, writes another letter to The Constitution and its readers. The letter was scribbled en route from England to Norway and here is what the adventurer says:

"What ho, me hearties, and all that sort of thing—Cain is once more at sea. Dame Fortune has again dallied with our fate. Cain is surprised to find himself in the midst of Cape Wrath, the Shetland Islands and Pentland Firth, Scotland.

Sense Sees Nil.

"Presuming that you received my last letter from your hamilton, I will take up where I left off. It is another of those longish, involved stories which I shall endeavor to condense and clarify. Somehow my actions don't seem to make sense when I look back, however.

"The loot and spoils from Berlin proved quite a haul. Cain has sold the other dubious things this worst-of-all business man has possessed from time to time. One moment wealth bulges in every pocket. The next, the cupboard is bare. Ofttimes I am fortunate to have the cupboard, which, in my case, is a pair of pants.

"This time I woke up smiling sunnily only to discover that Cain had indeed returned to his normal state—to wit, poverty. Taking inventory, we find that Merrie England has relieved us of some 11 pounds sterling and all we have to show for it is a cat.

Home Joins Cain.

"No, jolly old proof reader, that is not a mistake. Cain has a cat and his name is Homer. Now this asset, while an animal of excellent breeding and character, left us wondering whether we next should turn for aid to the land of blondes and good bacon."

"Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state administrator of WPA, was not in her office and was not expected to return until this afternoon. Other employees refused public comment.

Many women, a statement of the club said, have been denied the program of the relief work which calls for one hour a day of such activities as home improvement, health and first aid, and money management. Some of the charges, contained in earlier resolutions, were again approved by members of the club yesterday.

"I shall begin at once to watch that long-dreaded miracle, the Aurora Borealis. And, when we go to the land of blondes and good bacon."

SEWING PROJECTS OF WPA ATTACKED

Woman's Democratic Club Charges Favoritism Shown Some; Others Denied Aid

The management of sewing room projects of the Works Progress Administration were criticized yesterday in resolutions adopted by the Georgia Woman's Democratic Club, although the executive board of the club said it is "wholeheartedly supporting the humane program of President Roosevelt."

Charges that women employees in sewing room projects are "denied the benefits of a rehabilitation program expressly designed to aid them," "that some are being dropped from WPA rolls without regard to their need and that favoritism is the basis of promotion were placed on record by the club.

Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state administrator of WPA, was not in her office and was not expected to return until this afternoon. Other employees refused public comment.

NANCY PAGE

This Will Do For a Game of Hearts.

By FLORENCE La GANKE.

"How would you like to have an applique quilt design for a change?" I thought so, Miss Nellie Emmett, of Cincinnati, Ohio, sent me this design. She does not say whether the design has been in her family for a long time or not, but I think we can use it beautifully when we have some plain material that we want to applique onto some figured background. For instance, you might have some pink and white print. It might be rather large in pattern or design and not quite adapted to the usual piecing which calls for small figured patterns. We can buy some pale pink or some old rose plain material and use that for the applique hearts. They will go on the figured material which is cut 12 1/2 inches square. By the time the seams are taken off the square will measure 12 inches.

Don't you suppose, Nancy, that I could use figured material for the hearts and applique them onto plain material?"

Of course you can, and for that matter plain material may be applied onto plain, if the colors are harmonizing or pleasantly contrasting. But I should not encourage a figured piece onto another figured piece. It is too uneasy when finished."

The Nancy Page Club members sent for the direct-mail leaflet with its cutting pattern ready for tracing. They clipped the picture and directions from the paper and pasted them in the Nancy Page scrapbook.

The direction leaflet gives one-quarter of the applique design. There are no seams allowed. Nancy suggests that the quilt be made of light weight cardboard and trace the quarter as given four times, making a complete set of hearts. Then you will have the quilt pattern around the outline and cut out one-eighth inch beyond the pencilled line. Turn back the material on the line and baste with small stitches. Press lightly. Pin this in place on the background square. Baste, and then applique, using a fine blind stitch. On a piece of well-done applique there are no stitches visible. Press the block and set aside until the remainder of them are finished. They may be pieced with alternate squares of plain. The dotted line inside the pattern indicates the quilting design. You can see that it is this design which divides the pattern so that you have eight hearts. The background may be quilted in fine diamonds after the outline has been quilted one-quarter inch from the seam.

Direction leaflet for "Eight of Hearts" quilt design may be obtained by sending three cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Nancy Page, care of The Atlanta Constitution, 1306, for The Constitution.)

Don't be discouraged at what the scales tell you. Check also your measurements. You may be surprised.

water drinking is not a factor. You should drink eight glasses daily.

Another thing to check your measurements. Frequently measurements are found to change in advance of a registration of weight loss, and the improvement in measurements may be all out of proportion to that in weight. It pays to keep a double-check and measurements.

When you become discouraged about your weight and think you were born to be fat—take heart and carry on according to your low calorie plans. You can lose if you stick with a diet that enables you to draw on your stored fat—regardless of water storage.

Horticultural Show In Chicago, Ill., Attracts Atlantans

Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown and Mrs. Wayne F. Sewell left yesterday for Chicago to attend the first International Horticultural Exposition which takes place this week in the international amphitheater. This is the most ambitious horticultural show ever to be staged in America and it is the desire of those in charge that it may lead to the organization of a society in America that parallels the Royal Horticultural Society in England. This would serve to tie together all kinds of horticultural societies, not too binding but for the good of all.

The printed schedule of the show contains 63 pages. There is a separate schedule for amateurs alone which contains over 1,000 classes. There are several pages of classes for the more unusual garden flowers. There is a fruit section, a vegetable section, even one for bees and honey. Lectures and demonstrations will be given each day. Richardson Wright, the editor of House and Garden, being one of the speakers.

Among the special feature exhibits will be cutting gardens, perennial gardens, color gardens, both formal and informal gardens. An elaborate Italian garden will be built by Charles F. Fiore, a well-known landscape architect. But the most unusual garden will be the replica of the famous Hanging Gardens of Babylon. Mrs. Crown will make pictures of these interesting features to show her countless garden-minded friends during the October lectures at The Constitution's garden school.

The interest in gardening has grown so wonderfully in such a few years that it is hard to realize how much is being done to make America beautiful. Every small town of a few hundred inhabitants has a garden club and is planning constantly not only to beautify their own gardens, the school yard, but also the churchyard and the nearby cemetery. The high way is being cleaned and planted. Just to be sure that this interest will not soon pass, the children all over our country have been organized into junior garden clubs.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, "The Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

VALUATION OF DECLAREE'S SIDE LENGTHS.

Four-card, five-card and other lengths have a definite trick-taking value which must be added to the honor value of the suit and to the total winners of the hand. As with honors, the length winners are sure and probable, and are worth 1 and 1-2 a trick. As a rule, the side lengths are valued on the basis of the second most probable distribution.

Miss Reese and Mr. Dulaney Wed at Fashionable Ceremony

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM NETHERLAND DULANEY.

The marriage of Miss Sally Joe Reese and William Netherland Dulaney, of Birmingham, Ala., formerly of Atlanta, was solemnized last evening at a local hotel with the Rev. Ryland Knight, pastor of the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church, officiating in the presence of relatives and a few friends. Music was given by Miss Elizabeth Richardson, and ushers were Luke and Warner Mizell.

The bride's mother was the bride's only attendant, and she was crowned in a model of white ribbed tulle. The bride and full skirt were outlined in tulle and lace, and she wore a Juliette cap of matching material. Her flowers were an arm bouquet of American beauty roses.

The groom's father, Edward Hines Dulaney, was best man. The bride wore a becoming model of memory lane crepe featuring a high neck and long sleeves, which were encircled with cream hand-drawn lace and hunter's green velvet. The decollete neckline in the back was accentuated by tiny green bows extending the length of the gown. She wore a crown fashioned of net and cream lace and carried a shower bouquet of talisman roses and valley lilies.

The bride's mother was crowned in a model of sapphire transparent velvet and she wore a shoulder spray of orchids. The groom's mother was lovely in pale green mousseline de soie, and her flowers were lavender orchids. After the ceremony a reception was held, and the bride's table was centered with a tiered wedding cake and at intervals along the table two-branched candelabra were banked with cut flowers.

Mr. Dulaney attended school in Greenville, S. C., and completed her education at the University of Georgia. She was a member of the Delta Lambda Sigma sorority. Her maternal grandparents are the late James Holcomb and Elizabeth Reeves Wortham, of Georgia and South Carolina. On her paternal side her grandparents are the late William Warren and Martha Lane Reese, of Georgia and Alabama.

Mr. Dulaney is the son of Edward Hines and the late Margaret Netherland Dulaney. He is a descendant of the Stubbins and Dulaney of Virginia and Kentucky and the Netherlands of Louisiana. He graduated from the Georgia School of Technology, was a member of the S. A. E. fraternity and the Druid Hills Golf Club. After a trip they will reside in Birmingham, where Mr. Dulaney is connected with the engineering department of the Texas Company.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.
Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. You are asked to be confidential. Write to Chatfield, care The Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: When we were married my wife and I decided that each of us would take one night a week out from home and in this way keep up with friends and family. My wife belongs to a club that meets every Friday and I go out on Saturday. The other five nights we are at home with our children. Someone whispered to me that she had been seen at a movie with my best friend. Imagine my shock when she told me that they were in love and he was trying to persuade her to get a divorce and marry him. It pretty well shocked me. But after we discussed the matter out we decided for the children's sake to take up where we left off, forget the past as best we could and keep our home. My wife said that the decision was wise. What do you think? A. S. H.

ANSWER:
Surely you did the right thing and as the years go by you will be glad that you had the courage to take your blow standing up, carrying out your duty as a mother and a wife. One who couldn't have had a fair start in life had you exercised your rights.

Divorced fathers and mothers may find new mates to fill the bill but not one in a coon's age can a step-parent take the place of a real parent in the lives of the little ones. Though they may be too young to put it into words, children of divorced parents feel the shattering of the family world into which they were born—the home. Their emotional balance is likely to be upset by divided allegiance to mother, father and "step" parents. They are embarrassed before other children whose home life is normal. They hear the brunt of the fray.

I can never forget the pained expression on the face of a little eight-year-old who sat at a happy family dinner table while the head of the household said to her, "You are a low-down bad girl and I am going to have you taken care of." When we have children mama says she wishes papa was there to care for it—and then she says, "I wish papa was here to take care of it." But papa is married and has another home now. If her papa had seen the awful look on that little face she would have known that in that little voice he couldn't have eaten a bite of chicken in the other home—without choking.

Men and women who bring little ones into the world haven't the moral right to decide any problem without giving their children first consideration.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

TARZAN AND THE MAYAN GODDESS No. 68

In the moment that the jaguar roared toward his throat, Tarzan made a desperate and dangerous decision. He deliberately dropped his knife. Then he thrust out his hands and clamped the beast's neck, at the same time stiffened his arms to check its flight.

Now the ape-man looked down into the hideous face of the writhing beast and tightened his grip. The jungle creature's hot breath was reduced to short, rasping blasts, at last it ceased entirely. The beast's eyes bulged, and the tremors of death shook its body.

Under the weight of man and beast, the top of the sapling broke, but the jaguar's body cushioned the ape-man's fall. Quickly he freed himself from the devil's noose; then the Guatemalan jungler, surrounded with Tarzan's victory cry of the great apes of Africa.

Meanwhile Paco had recovered consciousness and he gazed with astonishment at the sight before him—Tarzan free of the noose and dead jaguar at his feet. Paco feared that he might be the next victim. Carefully his eyes measured the distance to his machete!
